

9-25-1964

Montana Kaimin, September 25, 1964

Associated Students of Montana State University

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.umt.edu/studentnewspaper>

Recommended Citation

Associated Students of Montana State University, "Montana Kaimin, September 25, 1964" (1964). Montana Kaimin, 1898-present. 4070.

<https://scholarworks.umt.edu/studentnewspaper/4070>

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the Associated Students of the University of Montana (ASUM) at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in Montana Kaimin, 1898-present by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.

Special Orientation Edition

MONTANA KAIMIN

Montana State University
Missoula, Montana

AN INDEPENDENT DAILY NEWSPAPER

Friday, September 25, 1964

HARD AT WORK—School hasn't even started yet, but freshmen were already busy early in the week, finding out whether they would wind up taking bonehead math or get stuck in one of the advanced

English courses. We upper-classmen sympathize with you. We had to take them too. (Kaimin Photo by John Lumb.)

Large Frosh Class Crowds Activities

An unusually large freshman class led the orientation week arrival of students to the MSU campus.

Though no one seems to know how many freshmen are running around, Leo Smith, registrar, estimated that the freshman enrollment is "considerably larger" than last year's. Last fall 1,150 freshmen were registered.

An office secretary said that 1,500 to 1,600 freshman applications were coded during the summer, but that not all would enroll.

Mr. Smith said that it was not possible to release any enrollment and registration figures or numerical estimates until activities settled down.

Numerical estimates were not needed to see the apparent increase in freshman enrollment, as the new collegians seemed to bulge out all over the MSU campus during orientation week activities.

The increase sent freshman men spilling over into temporary quarters in study and laundry rooms at the dorms. Most of the formerly two-occupant rooms in Craig Hall now house three men. Adjustments and additions were made in Elrod Hall in some instances, Sharon Calvin, residence halls secretary, said.

She added that drop-outs and cancellations will bring the early dorm overflow to normal by next week.

The new men's dorm on Arthur Avenue is scheduled to be completed for the beginning of winter quarter.

In Knowles Hall, the number of women in a room remained the same as last year. But conditions in the other women's dorms were changed.

Single rooms became doubles and doubles were made triples in Brantly and Corbin Halls. Most of the double rooms of Turner Hall, which housed men last year, were converted to triples.

Food service lines wound through the Lodge and outside early in the week, as food was being served only in the Treasure State Room.

With the opening of the Cascade Room and the new colored food card system, Robert Blakely, food service director, said that the service has no problems of overcrowded conditions. The new system places all freshmen and off-campus eaters in the Treasure State Room and upperclassmen in the residence halls in the Cascade Room.

During the week freshmen managed to elbow their way to orientation week talks, receptions, fraternity and sorority rush, placement tests, an SOS and registration.

Year's First CB Meeting Is Wednesday

Central Board, the student governing body of MSU, will conduct its first meeting of the year Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the College Inn.

The meeting will center on the approval of an editor and business manager of the Sentinel, the school year book. The editor, Bruce McGowan, Bensenville, Ill., resigned when he was told his idea for three Sentinels, to be published quarterly, would not be feasible this year.

Executive Committee, an ad hoc committee of the Associated Students of Montana State University, reviewed the petitions of Mignon Redfield, Billings, editor and Nancy Hendricks, Missoula, business manager during the summer.

In other action, CB will vote to appropriate money for a new intramural traveling trophy, the last one having been lost by a fraternity. A new trophy would be the responsibility of the possessors who will be obligated to pay for any damage to, or loss of, the trophy, according to Liffing.

The President also announced that ASMSU committee applications for upperclass students will be available at the Lodge desk on Monday.

Library Hours Are Extended

The MSU Library will be open longer hours this year, Kathleen Campbell, head librarian, has announced.

Regular library hours, beginning Monday, will be 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to noon Saturdays and 2 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Sundays.

Today the library will be open until 5 p.m. Tomorrow the library will be open from 8 a.m. until noon. Sunday the library will be closed.

Rieckmann, senior, Cicero, Ill., and Jane Totman, senior, Billings. All four associates are journalism majors.

Pat Rose, Kaimin news editor, is in charge of all campus news coverage and directing and advising reporters. "Rosie" is a senior from Polson.

Kaimin photographer John Lumb is a junior from Denver, Colo. He is in charge of the editorial camera as well as all news photography.

Kaimin Independent
The Kaimin is an independent, daily newspaper. Control of the content of the paper is exercised only by the editorial staff which is responsible to a committee of ASMSU.

Student fees and advertising

Ex-Hungarian Minister Will Speak Here Oct. 2

Nicholas Nyaradi, former Finance Minister of Hungary, will speak October 2 at 4 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall. He is the first in a series of speakers sponsored by the Visiting Lecturers and Public Exercises Committee. His topic has not been announced.

Mr. Nyaradi is now the director of the School of International Studies at Bradley University in Peoria, Illinois.

Born and educated in Hungary, Mr. Nyaradi received two doctorate degrees from the Royal Hungarian University of Budapest, one in political science, the other in jurisprudence.

Because of his participation in anti-Nazi underground movement in Hungary during World War II, he was asked by the anti-communist Small Landholders party to accept a position in Hungary's post-war coalition government. He was under-secretary of the Treasury and then Minister of Finance of Hungary until 1948. Because of increasing Soviet pressure, he and his wife left the country and came to the United States. He is now a citizen of this country.

Mr. Nyaradi has written articles for leading newspapers and magazines including the Saturday Evening Post, Fortune Magazine and the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

His book "My Ringside Seat in Moscow" was acclaimed by reviewers as one of the best books ever published on Russia and was also commended as an outstanding anti-subversive document by the National Americanism Committee of the American Legion.

Sex Freedom, Responsibility Is Group Topic

Freedom and responsibility in sex will be the subject of the first 1964-65 Tuesday Topics lecture series to be given by the Rev. Lawrence Gruman of the Congregational Church.

The lecture, which will refute the idea that there is only freedom (not responsibility) in sex, was sparked by several printed articles, including one by Wilbur Wood, former Kaimin editor, which appeared in the spring issue of Venture, the student literary magazine, Rev. Gruman said.

The weekly Tuesday night program, at 7 in the Yellowstone Room of the Lodge, is open to all students.

Several of his articles and speeches have been inserted into the Congressional Record.

Mr. Nyaradi spent seven months in Moscow negotiating a Russian reparation claim against Hungary and became personally acquainted with more Soviet leaders than practically any other statesman or diplomat. His knowledge of the Soviet Union is extensive.

He has been invited several times to Munich, Germany, where he was briefed on the organization and operations of Radio Free Europe and received a diploma of appreciation from the American Red Cross signed by its honorary chairman, former president Dwight D. Eisenhower.

During frequent trips abroad and through his contacts with leading personalities overseas, he follows closely the political and economic developments in several critical areas of the world. He is listed in "Who's Who in America," "Who's Who in American Education" and the "International Who's Who" and was recently awarded the George Washington Honor Medal for addresses all over the country by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Chairman of the Visiting Lecturers and Public Exercises Committee is Arnie Gutfeld.

Staff Efforts Produce First 64-65 Kaimin

By VICKY BURKART
Kaimin Associate Editor

MSU students are still unpacking their bags, but the Kaimin staff is already back at work. For this orientation week edition the 11 members of the paid staff of our university newspaper have combined their talents as reporters, copy readers and editors.

In addition to the paid staff members there are several unpaid members who write columns and draw cartoons. Ten reporters, eight copy editors and eight advertising salesmen keep the Kaimin on the newsstands throughout the campus every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of the school year.

Dan Foley, editor of the Kaimin, determines the editorial policy and acts as over-all director of the newspaper. Ex-sports editor Foley has settled neatly into a new niche as our witty and opinionated editor. Foley is a senior journalism major from Laurel.

The managing editor, Jim Crane, carries out the policies set by the editor. His work includes directing the gathering of feature and depth stories, guiding news and photography coverage and advising associate editors. A senior journalism major from Choteau, Jim's endless good nature keeps the Kaimin presses running smoothly.

Melton Business

Emily Melton, senior from Kalispell, is the Kaimin business manager. Miss Melton is responsible for the Kaimin budget and supervises the sale of advertising. Karalee Stewart, junior from Hungry Horse, acts as assistant to the business manager.

Sports editor Bill Walter, senior from Bozeman, writes a column, assigns all sports coverage and lays out the sports pages of each Kaimin. Between columns, Walter always finds time to make caustic remarks and direct a continuous barrage of pranks.

Associate Editors

The Kaimin's four associate editors work one night a week as overseers of the next day's paper. During the rest of the week the associates work on depth reports of campus issues as they arise. The associate editors are Vicky Burkart, senior, Billings; Nancy Englebach, senior, Kalispell; Carl revenue are the financial stays of the Kaimin. About half of the income of the paper is from advertising, sold by staff members. The other half is allotted to the paper by the student government.

To the extent that the student fees help pay for the newspaper the paper is "published" by the Associated Students of Montana State University.

But student government stays out of the Kaimin operation. The Kaimin serves not as a mouthpiece, but as a conscience of the government.

No control of the Kaimin is exerted by the journalism school or by the MSU faculty or administration.

The Kaimin is the voice of the students it serves.

Welcome (Again)

The Kaimin extends a hearty hello to its readers of previous years; but especially we wish to welcome the freshmen (probably for about the 500th time), offer them a little advice and explain the Kaimin's function.

You freshmen, for whatever reason you happen to be here—to receive a quality education, capture a husband, party for a quarter or merely get away from home—probably have more freedom (and more responsibility) than you've ever had before. Now it's your decisions which will decide how well you'll succeed or how miserably you'll fail.

We urge you new students to take full advantage of the opportunities offered at this university, culturally and socially as well as academically. You will probably never again have such a spectrum from which to learn and discover.

MSU offers the greatest collection of human resources in Montana. Take advantage of this. Seek out professors for advice and explanation, and don't be afraid to ask questions in class or after.

Don't confine your learning to textbooks. Take advantage of the visiting lecturers program, see the Masquers and Jubileers perform, take in a concert or a foreign film, join the Montana Forum discussion group or a student government committee. There is much more to be gained from an education than that which is offered in the classroom. But don't wait until your junior or senior year to discover this.

How does the Kaimin fit into this scheme?

As Miss Burkart's story on the front page states, the Kaimin is an independent newspaper supported by student fees and advertising revenue. The paid newspaper staff exercises complete control over the editorial policy and content of the paper—a right (and a responsibility) which all college papers are not so fortunate to possess.

As with any newspaper, we consider it our function to inform the reader—whether on campus, state, national or international matters. But an equally important function is to stimulate the reader to think and to provide a forum for his opinions.

The Kaimin has taken, and will continue to take, an editorial stand on issues of importance to our readers. The Kaimin does not expect you to agree with every opinion expressed on the editorial page—in fact we would be disappointed if you did. Therefore, we encourage letters to the editor and columns of opinion—whether you agree or disagree, whether you're a faculty member or a freshman, whether the problem is of international concern or campus concern.

The Kaimin will provide the forum; it will be up to you and the rest of our readers to make it interesting. —djf

Montana Kaimin

Dan Foley editor
Jim Crane managing editor
Emily Melton business manager
Pat Rose news editor
Bill Walter sports editor
John Lumb photographer
Karalee Stewart asst. to bus. mgr.
Vicky Burkart associate editor
Nancy Engelbach associate editor
Carl Rieckmann associate editor
Jane Totman associate editor
Prof. E. B. Dugan adviser

The name Kaimin is derived from the original Salish Indian word and means "something written" or "a message."

Published every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of the school year by the Associated Students of Montana State University. The School of Journalism utilizes the Kaimin for practice courses, but assumes no responsibility and exercises no control over policy or content. ASMSU publications are responsible to Publications Board, a committee of Central Board. Represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service, New York, Chicago, Boston, Los Angeles, San Francisco. Entered as second-class matter at Missoula, Montana. Subscription rate, $5 per year.

Libel Lecture Is Scheduled Wednesday

John Goldmark, former Washington state legislator, will speak on "Libel From the Right," at 8 p.m., Wednesday, in the Music Recital Hall. He is being sponsored by the Missoula Public Affairs Council, according to John F. Lawry, assistant professor of philosophy and coordinator of the Council.

Mr. Goldmark recently won a $40,000 libel suit against critics who accused him of being under Communist influence. The accusations aimed at Mr. Goldmark stem from his wife's one-time association with the Communist Party. She left the Communist Party 24 years ago.

Mr. Goldmark was defeated for re-election in 1962 after filling three terms in the Washington House of Representatives.

—The Way I See It—

No Changes

By JIM CRANE

Time changes very little.

We came back to school this year expecting to see that great changes would have been wrought on the campus through the course of the summer.

No such luck. Oh, sure, the old journalism shack is no more. And the old women's gym, which more recently housed campus television studios, is gone. And Pres. Johns has launched a drive to construct a new Student Union Building. And room for Lodge lounge lizards seems to have diminished.

Dean Clow is still instructing freshman women in the ways of life in a convent—er, college. And Dean Cogswell is still exhorting the freshman men to avoid the "evils gin does."

But still the campus looks much the same. Paths made by feet allergic to sidewalks still criss-cross the campus. Fraternities and sororities are still doing their level best to convince the campus newcomers that the advantages of group parties and group living far outweigh the disadvantages of the price paid in grades and money.

Classmates look the same. Oh, they look a little more relaxed and better fed than before and perhaps it looks as if they had been scrubbed behind the ears before they left home, but the overall picture is the same as before.

Dogs still use the campus as a playground, tormenting squirrels and often being outwitted by a teasing crow.

Missoula streets still bring out the worst in a car, eliciting squeaks and rattles never heard except in Missoula.

Wafting on the stagnant air is the fragrance of "eau de pulp mill" and the night sky still blazes with flaming sawdust, smoldering in sawdust burners that have supposedly been shut down for somewhat more than a year.

The feeling of warmth which comes from greeting an old roommate or an ex-girl friend or a favorite professor envelopes the campus.

It's good to be back. MSU, we're glad you haven't changed.

MSU Grid Squad to Invade Lobo Lair Tomorrow Night

By BILL WALTER
Kaimin Sports Editor

Montana's Grizzlies head south this weekend to tangle with the rugged New Mexico Lobos tomorrow in Albuquerque. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Grizzlies will be looking for their second win of the season. They opened the campaign with a 29-24 win over British Columbia in Missoula before losing to the University of Pacific 23-7 at Stockton, Calif., last week.

The Lobos return 17 lettermen from a squad which won its second consecutive Western Athletic Conference championship in 1963. They lost their opener to Utah University last week, 16-0. Utah was the only conference opponent to defeat the Lobos last year.

New Mexico runs from the Wing-T formation, but its passing attack takes a back seat to the running game. Against Utah last week, the Lobos completed only one of 10 passes for five yards.

The Grizzlies have continued to improve and though the offense didn't show too much last week, the defense improved considerably. With the exception of the first period, MSU battled Pacific on even terms.

But the offensive attack is not without its bright spots.

Dan Smelko (4.9) and Paul Connelly (4.7) rank second and third in rushing, according to the latest Big Sky Athletic Conference statistics.

Quarterback Tom Huffer is number two in BSAC passing, having completed 8 of 17 for 109 yards and one TD. Sophomore Ed Ferris has three completions good for 53 yards, second best in the league.

Huffer received rib injuries against the University of Pacific last weekend and may be out of the starting lineup tomorrow night. If he is unable to play, Coach Hugh Davidson will probably start senior Bob Benzley at the quarterback slot for the Silvertips.

Co-captain Bill Martin's three

CALLING U

Central Board, Wednesday, 7 p.m., College Inn.

MSU Pistol Club, Tuesday, 7 p.m., Army ROTC Bldg., open to all MSU students.

Publications Board, Wednesday, 4 p.m., Committee Rooms.

Tuesday Topics, Tuesday, 7 p.m., Yellowstone Room.

touchdowns give him a share of the conference lead in that department. Martin has also punted seven times for 255 yards, an average of 36.4 per attempt, second best among BSAC punters.

Top ground gainer for New Mexico last week was fullback Bob Hammond, who picked up 48 yards in 10 attempts. Joe Harris and Claude Ward chipped in with 27 and 26 yards against the Utes.

New Mexico may have a slight weight advantage, depending on changes in the starting units, but MSU's Mike Tilleman will be the biggest man on the field. Tilleman, at 6-5 and 264, will run into Wayne Tvrdik (224) and Jack Abendschan (222), the Lobos top linemen. Both won first-team berths on the WAC All-Star team last season.

Sentinel Staff Interviews Set

Applications for editor and associate editor of the Sentinel yearbook will be reviewed at a meeting of Publications Board Wednesday at 4 p.m. in one of the Lodge committee rooms.

Re-appointment of the editor and associate editor was necessitated by the resignation last spring of Bruce McGowan, former editor, after a squabble over operation and publication of the book.

Ray Cosman, chairman of Publications Board, said applications are due at the Lodge desk by Tuesday at 5 p.m. Applicants will be interviewed at the Wednesday meeting.

Cosman asked that all old members of the board and those who applied for board membership last spring attend the meeting.

EXPLAINING—Spur Donna Elder, sophomore, and Dave Howlett, junior, orient the freshmen at one of the many meetings conducted this week. After many meetings such as this, freshmen should be able to cope with the rigors and tribulations of college life. (Kaimin Photo by John Lumb.)

Grizzlies Post 1-1 Record In Opening Football Games

By BILL WALTER
Kaimin Sports Editor

The opening of the 1964 football season saw the Grizzlies edge British Columbia 29-24 in Missoula on Sept. 12 before losing to the University of the Pacific 23-7 last week in Stockton, Calif.

Despite a healthy margin in the statistics, MSU scored the winning touchdown with less than four minutes remaining when Dan Smelko tallied from the nine against BC.

The visitors scored twice in the first quarter and added a field goal just before the intermission to take a 17-14 lead at the half.

Co-captain Bill Martin scored on a pair of two-yard plunges in the second quarter to keep the Grizzlies within striking range.

The Thunderbirds widened the gap as the second half opened, scoring in two plays to take a 24-14 lead.

With 11 minutes left in the game, Martin scored, again from the 2-yard line. Roger Seeley ran for the conversion to make it 24-22 in favor of BC.

On the road the following weekend, the Grizzlies were victimized by their own fumbles as they dropped a 23-7 decision to the University of the Pacific Tigers.

Pacific scored twice in the first period after recovering Grizzly fumbles inside the Montana 40 to take a 13-0 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The Tigers scored in the second period following a 40-yard punt return to the Montana 15.

The Grizzlies took over on the Pacific 29 late in the first half following an unsuccessful punt attempt. Quarterback Tom Huffer tossed to Warren Hall with 46 seconds remaining in the opening half for the only MSU score. Terry Bergren booted the conversion to make it 20-7 at the intermission.

Jim Reed's 30-yard field goal with 46 seconds left in the third period ended the scoring for the evening.

Intramural Managers Meet Monday to Plan Football, Bowling

There will be a meeting of all touch football and bowling intramural managers Monday at 4 p.m. in the Men's Gym.

Eddie Chinske, intramural director, has announced that rosters for the football competition must be turned in by Oct. 1, with the competition beginning Oct. 6.

The deadline for bowling rosters has been tentatively set for Oct. 7, with competition starting Oct. 10.

All teams wishing to participate in either of these sports should have a representative at the meeting on Monday.